

POSTED: December 20, 2013

'Nail'-ed it

Philly-born, South Jersey-raised actress and director Lisa Regina wants to bring her next film, "Shooter's Nail," to shoot in the Philly area. The anti-bullying movie, inspired by wheelchair basketball player/"Big Brother" victor Eddie McGee, will star Eric Roberts, Oscar nominee Cathy Moriarty and "Boardwalk Empire"/"Oz" star Robert Clohessy. Regina told me she wants to get sportscaster Lou Tilley and some of the Sixers involved with the basketball-themed movie as well.

To help raise cash, Regina will film a teaser video at Runnemede's Triton Regional High School tomorrow with the help of students and community members. The projected start date of "Shooter's Nail" is fall 2014.